The Presbyterian minister threw himself face down in the ditch behind the tractor and the driver did not see him when he backed the big machine. Note the tread-marks across the shoulders of Klunder, who was dead when he was picked up. The minister and other civil rights demonstrators were trying to halt construction of a new public elementary school because they said it would preserve a neighborhood school pattern of segregation. Big Differences

There's a lot of difference between legal gambling and the illegal variety some of which has been demonstrated in recent news stories from Arkansas and Nevada. Illegal gambling has flourished in Hot Springs, Ark., for years. It has been the backbone of Hot Springs' economy and although contrary to law, has gone on and on. Then the other day Goy, Orval E. Faubus ordered all illegal gambling closed down in Hot Springs. For some reason that wasn't explained, he said nothing about illegal liquor sales which still continue in the resort center. A few days later, a story from Las Vegas told about closing of the Silver Slipper Casino on the Las Vegas strip. The place was closed on orders of the Nevada gaming commission which reported cheating had been discovered at the casino. The commission said dice had "shaved" at the casino to produce fewer sevens than would be normal for crapshooters.

Those who contend that gambling is a blight on society in any way, shape or form should take another look. In all the years of illegal gambling at Hot Springs, Ark., the citizen who sought that form of entertainment or pastime had no protection. Further, he had no recourse because the activity was illegal. Anyway, it would take a real expert with the galloping dominos to know whether anyone had tampered with them. In Hot Springs, the only such experts were the persons who owned the dice. Nevada presents a different picture.

The Silver state's gaming commission and state gaming control board are real fussy over who is licensed to conduct gambling games. The board also is par-ticular over how those games are conducted. Investigators constantly check to make certain the customers are bucking only the normal gambling odds. Here is a real protection for the customer, a protection that isn't even imagined when gambling operates outside the law.

The lesson is plain for all who would see it. Anything that is forbidden by law should be avoided by citizens. And for those things that are permitted by law, but may be considered somewhat questionable for any number of reasons, the individual citizen must make his own decisions. Examples may be drinking or smoking; although perfectly legal, many persons abstain from these practices for personal reasons. Many may feel the same way about gambling. Those who do choose to gamble would do well to participate only where it's legal, with governmental regulation and protection of the customer.

It's like that with the illegal liquor sales in Hot Springs. The person purchasing a drink in an establishment that's contrary to law has no protection and no guarantee he's not purchasing something that might be detrimental to health or even his life. If the people of Arkansas want liquor sales they would be wise to move toward a legal operation. Otherwise, they should insist on enforcement of the law.

NAME MAY FOLLOW

The old Pacific Coast Conference for accuracy. The conference included col-leges all the way from Los Angeles up the coast and across to Idaho, even including Montana at one time. The com-petition in the old PCC wasn't exactly even, either, contributing somewhat to the sad record compiled down through the years by the University of Idaho. How could a small school with meager athletic talent hope to stand up to such giants as UCLA or Stanford.

Wide differences of opinion and lots of contributing factors finally brought the demise of the old Pacific Coast Con-ference. The California members decided to go their own way and the Oregon and Washington schools were cut adrift, as was Idaho. In the evolution process, the Washington collèges were picked up first and now the two Oregon universities are back in the fold. Except for the absence of Idaho, the old Pacific Coast Conference is back in business.

Idaho alumni shouldn't feel bitter about the change. There's reason to believe the University of Idaho will be improving its sports records without being affiliated with the larger schools. After all, it's better to win a game now and then against a team of the same caliber than to be shellacked constantly by larger colleges.

The name of the former Coast conference may bother some of the old coast fans who would be slow to recognize something like the Big Six, Big Eight or the Athletic Association of Western Universities. But by the time the new conference gets into full swing, there may be another change in name. There's no reason why the colleges can't return to the name of Pacific Coast Conference, the best and most descriptive name used since all the old feuding erupted.

Haywood H. Hunter of Los Angeles told his story to a sente subcommittee a few days after his arrest in Los Angeles on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the government. The government charged he falsified involces and understated the value of a 1963 shipment of firearms from Singapore. According to Hunter's story, told with a straight face, he bought about 500 assorted firearms from the Singapore police, including some Beretta car-the Singapore police, including some Beretta car bines. Therefore, he says, he was "shocked" when customs inspectors discovered the carbines had turned into 24 submachineguns en route to these shores.

"Why the Singapore police department would sell me submachineguns, I don't know." said Hunter.

well sir, I don't either, unless hayword inkapelled Beretta carbines in his order so as to suggest he lusted for submachineguns. But his case is an example of the dangerously ridiculous ease with which anyone in this country may acquire an arsenal of lethal weapons in case he wants to shoot some sparrows, the guy on the next block—or a President of the United States.

MANY AVAILABLE.—There is, as Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D., Conn., noted, a "mother-lode of firearms cached in foreign countries . . . that fast-buck artists are exploiting to arm the delinquent teen-agers, hoodiums and psychopaths who walk the streets of America." President Kennedy was assassinated with one of these weapons, an Italian carbine, sold to Lee Oswald by mail by a Chicago sporting goods house. Oswald paid $12.78 for the rifle and $7.17 for a telescopic sight.

Tragic thoush 15 may be however: the assassi-

Tragic though it may be, however, the assassi Tragic though it may be, however, the assassination of a president is not the ultimate danger, posed to this country by its failure to regulate the flow of firearms, Any subversive group, including the communist party, can and undoubtedly does arm itself against the day when a small shooting war is deemed beneficial to its cause. Extremists on both sides of the civil rights battle can build up their arsenals for use in terrorist tactics. This is probably the only country in the world which invites lunatic groups to induige in armed insurrection.

ANY CHILD MAY HAVE ONE-The charge ANY CHILD MAY HAVE ONE—The charge against Haywood H. Hunter is not that he bought 24 submachinegums. That is permitted under present law. He is charged only with falling to declare them and thus alleged to cheat Uncle Sam of duty. Meanwhile, a 10-year-old child may continue to order by mail a rifle, revolver, shotgun, submachinegun, grenade or even a bazooka. Presumably, a child needs a bazooka these days to protect himself against those enemy tanks that infest his neighborhood. infest his neighborhood.

No proposed law even suggests that hunters other sportsmen who use guns responsibly should be penalized or even inconvenienced. The aim is to ourb the gunslingers, to require them, as Rep. John Y. Lindsay, R., N.Y., says "to present their credefitials." Murder may be illegal in the U.S., but it is still too easy to commit.

WHEN THE SNAKE FLOWED UPHILL In the public power dirge in the wake of the public power commission's granting a license to a private utility combine at the Mountain Sheep aite in Idaho, Idahoans will be amazed to learn the argument the public power opponents are

The Tri City Herald, Wash., newspaper, aping the public power line, comments:

"We hope that the courts, who will get the case in event the FPC will not reverse itself, will read the federal power act, particularly section 7, which says:

(In issuing a preliminary permit hereunder of licenses where no preliminary permit has been issued and in issuing licenses to new licensees... the commission shall give preference to applications therefore by states and municipalities, provided the plans for the same are deemed to the commission equally well stapted to constitutions. serve and utilize the public interest the water

"As Mr. Swidler (chairman of the FPC) noted in his dissent, the only circumstances under which PPC can grant a license to a non-preference applicant is when the aplicant has a prior preliminary permit for the particular project for which it seeks a license."

Incredulously, we are informed by the Tri City Herald that any private utility seeking a license against competing public power applicants, have two strikes against them to begin with. Some will be shocked to realize, that there is such a law so discriminatory against the private utility right to seek a river site.

And Secretary of Interior Udall puts up another moat against the private utilities in his reasoning over the "bad decision" of the FPC. Secretary Udall argues that the U.S. government taelf should have had the license because, he says, all of the nine downstream sites are federal dams. Hence, the Mountain Sheep site should have been federal. In this line of reasoning, we will never see another private utility seating on a dam again . . . that's how far the federal-public power-preference clause trend has gone this spring of 1964.

Actually, by the public power act, the FPC must first give preference to the federal government to build a dam if the federal government's application is "equally well adapted" as any other application. After first satisfying this mandate Application. Is volumed when superior the mandate, application. After first satisfying this mandate, then the FPC must move to give preference to a public power application (states, municipalities, public power districts or other public entitles) if it is "equally well adapted" to the public interest, over any other application. Then, only, can private utility interest be entertained.

In the celebrated Mountain Sheep site decision the PPC went both through the federal governthe FPC went both through the federal government blockade and the public blockade to grant the private utility license—with good reason. In the court contesting, the losing public utility combine must prove that its application was "equally adapted" to the public interest, or that the FPC was arbitrary or capricious in its judgment. This, the contestant, undoubtedly, will have a most difficult task to prove.

Where full multiple purpose dams can be built, the private utilities will have to match the multiple use principle. But full multiple use was not a plvot point at Mountain Sheep, where power use was supreme.

In the Mountain Sheep decision, water had to flow literally up hill... and it did. That seems

EXAMPLE

Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg has resigned his commission as a Colonel in the air force reserve. He wanted to remove any possible question of conflict of interest in the two roles. The justice explained that he doesn't think there is any actual conflict. But he fears the implication would arise if he, as a supreme court member, had to rule on a case involving the air force.

Justice Goldberg's decision makes sense. Congress should follow his example. Its members who are reserve officers gannot avoid the shadow of a doubt when they, as legislators, vote on matters affecting the military branch in which they also serve.—New York World-Talegram.

Deodorant Added To Firemen's Fight Equipment

SALT LAKE CITY, April 8 (UP)
—Salt Lake county firemen have added a deodorant to their firefighting equipment.

The department has purchased two for generators which will spray a sweet-smelling deodorizing agent to remove smoke and its smell, according to Chief Frank P. Jones.

The deodorizing technique will be used only where there is a small amount of fire damage in a home or business.

It was used recently at a home fire with excellent results.

The removal of smoke allows people to move back into their homes without waiting for a lengthy "airing out" period and also will prevent extensive smoke damage to merchandise in business establishments, according to lones.

HOW MUCH WILL IT COST to settle your estate?

Being realistic, you know that estate taxes and administration fees must be paid from your estate before it passes to your family.

But did you realize that estate taxes alone might consume 20...30...50% or even a greater percentage, And, did you know that the amount of these taxes - far from being inevitable - is in some measure subject to your control.

The cost will depend in large measure upon what you do or fail to do. Inadequate or no planning may increase the cost. Sound planning can help to reduce it. If you are interested in getting the facts - especially the cost facts - as they apply to your estate situation, we would be glad to assist you. We, of course, do not give legal advice; only your attorney is qualified to do that. Neither do we draw Wills or trust agreements; these, too, demand his attention.

But working with estate owners and their attorneys in creating workable, economical estate plans is an important activity of our Trust Department.

You are cordially invited to take advantage of this specialized experience. We make no charge for the service, nor is there any obligation.

Water, water everywhere... but can you taste your whiskey?

You can...if it's Old Taylor 86 bourbon. Taylor 86 never disappears in your drinks. It's genuine whiskey.

That doesn't mean it's any stronger than other whiskies. Or any less smooth.

It's 86 proof. Most whiskies are. And in whiskey, proof is strength.

What Old Taylor 86 has is flavor. Flavor so deep, so genuine, it lasts as long as your drink.

Tonight, add a little water, a lot, or drink it straight. Any way, it's the best America has to offer.

"London thou art the flower of cities all . . ."

So wrote one of her suitors about the time Columbus set sall for the new world with the blessing of Ferdinand and Isabella of Spain who gave St. Margaret's church in Westminster its stained glass window.

London is the second metropolis of the world in population next to Tokyo. It straddles the River Thames and from its geo-graphic center at Charing Cross station extends from 12 to 16 miles in all directions. Within its 722 square miles live 8.2 mil-lion people.

The Romans under Julius Cae-sar conquered Britain in 54 B.C. and, wise in the ways of em-pire-building and commerce, paid little attention to the country's then inland capital, Verulam-jum (St. Albans) once it fell.

They put a good deal of effort, however, into a settlement on the north bank of the Thames 25 miles away, knowing that great cities must command communications and have access to the sea. They mamed the settlement Londinium—possibly affer. tlement Londinium-possibly after a tribe—and walled and forti-fied it.

By the middle of the first century A.D. a Roman historian was describing the town as "a busy emporium for trade and traders"

It still is. The London he was It still is. The London he was writing about was on the same site, though somewhat smaller, than the square mile called "The City"—the present-day financial heart of the British commonwealth and the sterling area which is at the core of 40 percent of the trade of the world: The home of the great commod-ity markets, the hub of international insurance, one of busiest of all ports.

wife and five children managed to escape from their trailer home before the trailer and all their belongings were swept out to sea. Rider is stationed at the airbase in Anchorage and the family had just moved there from Florida in December.

Relatives in Idaho and Utah were unable to contact the family until late last week and learned that they were unhurt. Their oldest child is 7 years old. The family now is staying with relatives at the airbase.

DEMONSTRATORS CROUCH behind cars to escape being sprayed by water hoses from special bolics trucks during riot in downtown Santiago, Chile. The rioters set one car after and over-turned others. Several people were wounded and some 200 arrested in the disturbances which broke out during communist-inspired strike in support of civil servants demanding salary raises.

Salinger Has One Theme: He Is Best Choice By DE VAN L SHUMWAY But he had been cheeking for Grandon and what would they "Maybe we'd find ourselves in Jems in Washington dehate about?"

FRESNO, April 8 WPB-Pierre Salinger is running hard for the Unifed States senate — fr dawn to dark — stressing major issue:

"I'm the man with experience and background that will-permit me to be a working senator on the first day I take office."

The short, rotund former pres ldential press secretary talked with this newsman in a corner of a bustling reception hall where his supporters from the Fresno area had gathered to get word of encouragement from their candidate.

Why did he want to be a United States senator?

"I did not make the decision lightly," he said. "I understand the responsibilities of the senate.

A couple of days before that, galinger had talked to Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, B. Inglewood.

Early in the morning, Salinger said, Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk— who had considered running but withdrew, blaming lack of monwithdrew, blaming lack of mon-ey—came to Pierre's Washington office. "I told him I was leaning toward running," said Salinger.

"He encouraged me to do so. He gave me his opinion that the law would prevail on my side that was the key issue at that time."

"I just feel that in seven years in Washington including three years in the White House with Presidents Kennedy and Johnson I have the experience take office."

Salinger insists that he actualmade up his mind to run for lems so far in the campaign has
